

Industry Analyst, Healthcare Industry

Develop, collect, analyze and disseminate industry and trend information related to the healthcare industry. This data includes, but is not limited to: industry statistics, growth rates, profitability, market share statistics and key sources of capital.

Responsibilities include:

- Conduct discovery and evaluation of high-value data sources. May negotiate purchase or subscription of resources and manage vendor interface.
- Manage collection of high-value internal and external data and resources related to the healthcare industry.
- Establish consistent, replicable data collection processes. Build and maintain searchable database of healthcare-related information.
- Analyze and mine data sources to create customized reports on periodic as well as ad hoc basis.
- Scan relevant industry and general news sources to keep up with current trends. Develop efficient method of disseminating this info to team.
- Respond to requests regarding data on industry.
- Perform other duties, tasks and responsibilities as assigned or required.

Requirements:

Masters in Library & Information Science, with minimum 3 years corporate library or research experience. Excellent interpersonal, written and verbal communications skills. Must have strong research experience and skills, including use of Internet based resources. Must have strong data management and computer skills. Must be able to work with little or no direct supervision, and possess exceptional analytical skills.